✉ A Note Before You Arrive

You made it.

Thirteen weeks ago, you showed up as a creator. You leave Cohort 01 as something more: a creator-entrepreneur with a portfolio, a peer network, a set of real brand briefs behind you, and a credential that no one else in India has yet.

This ceremony isn't just a closing frame. It's a statement to the industry, to future cohorts, and to yourself: that structured creator education is real, it works, and you were part of the very first class to prove it.

The next 24 hours are designed to be memorable. This guide tells you everything you need to know to arrive prepared, settle in smoothly, and make the most of every moment.

Welcome to The Ambixous Experience.

◆ One Last Thing

In three months, you went from showing up to a screen, to showing up for yourself.

You executed briefs that most professionals never get access to. You got judged by people who know what excellence looks like. And you did it alongside 11 others who pushed you, inspired you, and occasionally made you question everything, in the best possible way.

The graduation ceremony is not the finish line. It is the beginning of you using the credential, the portfolio, and the relationships you built, to go further than you imagined when you first applied.

We are proud of every single one of you.

See you on the farm.
